Last year was the most prosperous in the history of cotton manufacturing in the South, states the Chicago Herald.

According to the Industrialist, Kansas has 105 different kinds of native trees and shrubs, occurring chiefly in the eastern part of the State.

The people who reside on the Rue Panama, a street in Paris which received that name several years ago, want to have its name changed. Many of them have good reason to rue Panama, thinks the Chicago Herald.

An observant Philadelphian makes the amazing assertion that girls with retrousse noses marry sooner, and are more fortunate in catching good husbands, than young ladies whose features are of the Greek or Roman type.

Several lots in Cornhill, London, in the immediate neighborhood of the Bank of England, were sold several days ago at a price that averaged $250 per foot, or something over $10,000,000 an acre. Several lots of equal size were offered for sale some weeks ago, and were bought in by the owner at a price considerably higher.

There has been a great yearly diminution during the last ten years in the number of soldiers in military or civil prisons in England and Wales. In 1884 there were 1117 soldiers in English prisons; in 1891 there were 433, and on the 31st of last December there were but forty-four. Last year not one soldier was sentenced to penal servitude. The expulsions for misconduct have decreased since 1888 from 2020 to 1590.

The New York Press estimates that about 1600 novels were published during the past six years, or 270 novels a year. These 1600 novels were written by 792 authors who signed their names and 130 who did not. Only 240 of these authors met with success enough to encourage them to write a second time. In all, 2600 persons have failed as writers of fiction during the last eighteen years, as against about 80 who have succeeded well and 120 who have succeeded tolerably.

The danger of freshets in streams and rivers is greatly increased as the country grows older up to a certain period, declares the Boston Cultivator. That is fixed by the time thorough underdraining begins. All the processes of cultivation help to make new virgin soil less absorptive of water. They diminish the vegetable matter in the soil, and close up the veins through which water, as it fell, was slowly drawn away into the subsoil and thence more slowly into springs. The beginning of underdraing reverses this process. It opens a permanent water-way beneath to which water slowly percolates through the soil, lessening danger from floods.

The Census Bureau has issued a bulletin of prisoners and paupers in the United States. Some of the facts stated are of interest. In 1890 there were in the prisons of the United States undergoing punishment for crime, 82,329 persons. Of these, 75,924 were males and 6405 females. There were 52,894 white males and 4416 white females, making a total of 57,310 whites. The colored prisoners numbered 24,277, of which 22,305 were men and 1922 were women. There were 407 Chinese prisoners, of whom 406 were males and one a woman. Of Japanese there were twelve males and one female; of Indians there were 322, 307 being men and 15 women. In the matter of nativity, of the 57,370 white prisoners, 49,471 (that is, 38,156 men and 2315 women) were born in the United States, and 15,932 (that is, 13,869 men and 2063 women) were born in foreign countries. As to the pauperage the statistics are also interesting. In 1890 there were in all the almshouses in the United States 73,045 paupers, of which 40,741 were men and 32,304 were women. Of the whole, 37,387 were white men and 29,191 white women. The colored race showed up with 3226 men and 3092 women. When it comes to crime, comments the New Orleans Picayune, the men of all colors and races vastly outnumber the women, but in poverty the numbers of the two sexes more nearly equal each other, although there are fewer pauper women than men, although from the weakness and social restraints imposed on the sex it would seem that female paupers should be in a majority, which is not the case. In respect to crimes, the colored people in proportion largely outnumber the whites, but when it comes to pauperdom the white percentage is much the larger. Thus it appears that the colored man is not so willing as the white to become a charge on the public. When he goes into prison it is against his wishes, but tenantcy in the poor-house is voluntary. The showing is not, however, particularly flattering in either case.

Get Out the Way.

I climbed the hill one wintry day,
And mused my meditative way,
And lost in various thought profound,
Oblivious to all around,
I heard a shout ring loud and clear
And smite in terror on my ear,—
A shout that filled me with dismay,
"Hi! Mister, there! Get out the way!"

I looked and saw there in my road
A double-runner with its load
Of shouting, laughing, hooting boys—
A solid freight of solid noise.
"Hi! Mister, there! Get out the way!"—
A most undiplomatic bray,
A bold command without the stress
Of any courteous finesse.
I did not make a long delay
But I—well, I "got out the way."

My first thought was not one of peace,
But one of vengeance and police;
But then those boys, I thought again,
Are like all other sons of men,
All mount their sleds and shout each day,
"Hi! Mister, there! Get out the way!"

We have ambitions shod with steel,
Too swift to see, too hard to feel.
We mount them in the hope to glide
Down destiny's steep mountain side,
And lightning-swift through frosty gleams
Dart these fast runners of our dreams,
And loud we shout, a raucous bray,
"Hi! Mister there! Get out the way!"

We do not turn our coasters back
But warn all people off the track,
We claim an unimpeded slope
Down all the highways of our hope.
So, that our double-runners glide;
Let other men find room one side;
And they can stand there in the snow
And have the fun to see us so.
And so we shout day after day,
"Hi! Mister, there! Get out the way!"

And so I stood there in the snow
And watched the boys glide far below,
And swift my thoughts were thoughts of peace—
I had no use for the police.
Do I not shout myself each day
"Hi! Mister, there! Get out the way!"

HER DOUBLE GIFT.

BY LAURA LANSFELDT.

"A lady wishes to see you, sir," said the staid man servant to Dr. Hall. It was past 10 at night, and the physician looked up in some surprise.

"Show the lady in, please," he said, and rose as a slim young figure glided into the room. Her face was covered with a veil; her garments were black. She came forward quickly.

"You are Dr. Hall?" she said.

"Yes, I am. May I ask——"

"I will not keep you many minutes," she said; her manner was agitated, her voice almost trembled. "You have a patient in your care—Mr. Devereaux."

A little distantly Dr. Hall said again—"Yes."

The girl—she was plainly no more suddenly threw back her veil, revealing a pale, lovely face, with delicate features.

"You want to know who I am," she said, "and by what right I ask these questions. I have no right, but I beg of your mercy that you will answer me. I heard of his illness—that you almost give him up. Is that true?"

"Yes it is," said the doctor, gently.

"My name is Dorothy Clifford," said the girl. A flush swept over her cheek as the doctor gave a little start. "You know my name?" she faltered.

"From my patient," said Dr. Hall; "nothing he has told me—simply the name he has repeated unconsciously."

"Then perhaps you guess," she said in low voice. "I am that Dorothy he speaks of. A year ago we were lovers—engaged. I thought I had reason to accuse him of unfaith. We parted."

"Ah," said the doctor, "I knew there was some cause for this breakdown besides the frightful hardships he has been through in America. Do you want me to let you see him?"

"No—no—! I want you to tell me if he must die—if it is true that there is but one chance for him—if I can give him that chance! It was all my fault, doctor! He was true; it was my madness that parted us. You must let me atone—give my life for his if need be; but he must not know who has saved him!"

"Do you know what his one chance is?" said the doctor, gravely. "A dangerous operation rarely practiced—dangerous to both the persons operated upon—what we call transfusion of blood."

"I will run the risk," said Dorothy, with her eyes flashing. "I broke his heart—I sent him into those hardships that have shattered his health! I will give him my health—my life! Eseric need not know"——

"My poor child," said the physician, in deep pity, "he will know nothing—he is almost unconscious—but I have doubts about this"——

The doctor slightly shook his head—he did not think his patient was a man likely to mend a broken life in that easy fashion. But he heard all the girl had to urge and questioned her in his turn. The girl pleaded frantically with sobs and tears, and at last Dr. Hall consented.

The patient himself knew nothing about it; he lay in the lethargy that precedes death and was only faintly conscious at intervals. There was very little chance that he would be aware of Dorothy's presence in his room. Indeed, when she entered if she stood by his side for a full minute without his stirring. The girl herself seemed scarcely to feel at all. Before her, senseless, dying, lay the man she had loved passionately through all her angry mistrust and injustice; yet never a quiver came over her beautiful face.

She went through the painful operation without a murmur—nay, with an exultant smile. Each drop of her blood transfused into the veins of the dying man was so much towards atonement.

"Still living," was the doctor's report to Dorothy the next day; and he went back to Devreaux, at whose side he almost lived. The woman, healthy, vigorous, recovered rapidly; the man, who, besides anguish of soul, had endured enough cold and famine to shatter a less fine constitution, struggled painfully with death, though he did not care for life.

Then life conquered. "But after all she has done him a cruel kindness," thought the physician. "What has life to give him?"

"So we are not going to lose you yet," he said, cheerfully, coming to the young man's bedside one morning.

Devereux's only answer to this promise of life was to look up in the kind face with eyes full of pain.

"Don't you care to live?" said the doctor, huskily.

Devereux silently turned his eyes away. They wandered over the room as if they sought something. An odd feeling crept into the doctor's heart.

"What is it you want—or is it that you miss something?" he said.

"Nothing," Devereux murmured; but constantly the doctor detected that searching, wistful glance. He began to understand. The young man grew stronger in spite of his apathy—the physical need of life triumphed, and one day he began to ask questions: What had he talked about when he was delirious? Who had been with him—only the doctor and the nurse?

"No one else, and we don't notice sick people's chatter," said Dr Hall, smiling.

"I thought there was some one else," said Devereux, with a sigh; "perhaps it was a dream."

"I dare say. Who did you dream of?"

"She was here—I felt her. I don't think it was a dream. Doctor," lifting himself and looking eager, "you don't answer me— did she come?"

"Hush!" said the doctor, soothingly. "Yes; she was here—Dorothy Clifford."

"I knew it! I knew it!" Devereux whispered, trembling like a child. "Did she come to say good-by?"

"Devereux," said the doctor, "I made her promise, and I dare not break it; I cannot answer you; but that question to her."

"She will not come," Devereux said hopelessly.

"She will—I know the whole story; never mind how. I Will send for her; you shall ask her that question. You are puzzled. Well, sleep now if you can—I will wake you when I bring her."

Devereux, too weak or anything but mute wonder, obeyed. The doctor left the house and drove rapidly to Dorothy Clifford. She thought he had come to give his daily report.

"He goes on slowly but well," said Dr. Hall. "I have come to fetch you to him."

"I!" She started back, crimson, quivering. "Impossible! You have not told him?"

"You must come," said the doctor, sternly. "I have told him nothing—somehow he has found out in part."

She went to get ready, sat silent in the carriage, and crept upstairs behind the doctor like a guilty thing, to the sick room. Devereux was lying back among the pillows, looking at the two as they came into the room.

Mute, with bowed head, the woman stood beside the man she had wronged. She waited for him to speak.

"Dorothy!" he whispered. She trembled.

"Put your hand in mine," he said. "Kneel down, so that I can see you; I have only a question to ask."

She obeyed—knelt down and put her hand in his, bending her head lower than before.

"You came before—days ago," Devereux said, in slow, half halting tones; "when they said I was dying. I kew you were here. Why did you come?"

She flushed scarlet.

"To save your life," she said.

"You! you saved it!"

She turned her head aside; her dry lips moved mechanically.

"It was your one chance. Now let me go. You bade me come, and I came—answer you, and I obeyed. I have had enough of torture—let me go."

"Darling, come to me."

The strength of a child in his clasp, but she yielded to it helplessly. She cried silent, passionate tears, and he kissed them away, and hushed her prayers for pardon.

"How can I forgive?" he whispered. "You have given of your life to save mine. You have atoned. Kiss me and stay with me now and forever."

* * * * * * *

"Doctor," said Devereux, an hour later, "I do want to live now."

"Ah! I thought you would. I kept my promise, didn't I?"

"Yes. God bless you for all your kindness."

"Oh, that's nothing. Now will you try and sleep?"

"Promise you will give my bride to me when the time comes."

"You dear, grateful fellow, with all my heart!" And so he did before long and sent the two away together to begin the life they had so nearly missed.—[N. Y. Advertiser.

Two Sorts of Men May Laugh Well.

A prominent Wall street banker and broker, who is reputed to be worth about ten millions, walked from his private office the other morning into the outer room, where was gathered a number of his friends and customers. He was laughing so heartily that his cheeks were highly flushed, and the merry peals echoed and re-echoed through the room. Everybody turned to look at him, and every other face but one wore a sympathetic smile. The single exception looked very grave, and watched the merry broker with intentness. When the banker's laughter had ceased he went back into his office, and the grave man said to a companion:

"He laughs heartily, does he not? Yes, it is easy for him to laugh, whereas it is very hard for many others. There are two kinds of men who thoroughly understand and appreciate laughter, in whom this expression of merriment is spontaneous, light-hearted, and without a tinge of the sarcastic or bitter. One kind is the rich, successful men who are beyond ordinary cares and harassments, and have learned to enjoy the power of wealth. They can turn from any annoyance or grief to the contemplation of their success and be happy. The other kind includes those rare beings who are poor and don't attempt to get rich. The plantation negro is a type of this class, and occasionally one encounters a white man who is imbued with the spirit of the proverb, 'As we journey through life, let us live by the way.' But I must say the rich man's laughter sounds much more musical in my ears. The poor man's contains a little defiance and recklessness, no matter how sincere it is. It seems to say, 'Well, what of it? I'm poor, but who cares?' The rich man's merriment, on the contrary, is free from anything objectionable. It carries with it an intimation or power, and if there is a suggestion of surfeit in it, is that an objection? Who would not like to drink so deep from the cup of pleasure as to make pleasure lose its novelty? Wouldn't we all like to try it? I think so. I only ask that I may laugh like the rich man, secure that my merriment today will not be soured by reverses tomorrow."—[New York Sun.

Man's Inhumanity.

The Washington Star observes: "Man's inhumanity to man is as marked today as it ever was, and a deplorable instance of the lack of charity may be discerned in the case of Henry J. Spencer, who committed suicide because his having once been confined in a penitentiary prevented either the procuring or the retention of employment. Six years ago Spencer killed Scott Dawson in Alleghany County, Maryland. For this he was sentenced to imprisonment for life, but in view of many circumstances that mitigated the crime Gov. Brown recently granted him a pardon. From the day when the prison gates were thrown open Spencer has traveled around in search of work by which to support himself, but he could not travel more rapidly than did the story of his crime, and as often as he secured a situation he lost it just as soon as his employers discovered that he had worn the stripes. Wearied by his fruitless endeavors to earn a livelihood the unhappy man poisoned himself with morphine. The crime for which he was deprived of his liberty was hardly less than justifiable, and there certainly was no reason why any one should have hesitated to trust him implicitly, but prejudice knows no charity, and only in death was there any apparent relief."

At Great Distances.

Observant and far-sighted persons distinguish at great distances a man from a woman, not by dress, face or figure, but by movements. The motions of the most graceful of men are ungainly when compared with the sinuous lines that most women instinctively assume. It often happens that a single motion of a distant figure, and especially a motion of the arms above the head, will instantly determine for a trained observer the sex of the person. If anyone doubts this, let him note the awkward, windmill-like performance of a man arranging his hair, and the graceful curves and deft touches with which a woman accompanies the same thing.—[New York Sun.

QUEER BIRDS.

An Interesting Exhibit at the World's Fair.

Series of Groups Prepared by the National Museum.

One of the most picturesque features of the exhibit of the National Museum at the world's fair in Chicago will be a series of groups of odd sorts of birds. These have been prepared by Dr. Robert Ridgway.

The crocodile bird, for example, is illustrated by an actual crocodile about eight feet long, stuffed in a life-like manner, with its mouth wide open, while along its back are walking two or three birds of this curious species. One of the latter is standing inside the mouth of the saurian, pecking parasites from the reptile's tongue. This is the kindly office which the bird performs for the crocodile, at the same time procuring food for itself and relieving its reptilian friend of annoyance. So far as naturalists are aware, the latter never returns this kindness with the ingratitude of gobbling its benefactors.

Another group shows a pair of bower birds disporting themselves about their play house. Purely for the sake of amusement these quaint feathered creatures are accustomed to build covered structures of twigs and other materials, in and about which they scatter every bright and pretty object they can find, such as shells. Furthermore, they hang garlands of flowers in front of their play houses, and, when these are faded, they procure fresh ones. It is even said that they plant seeds, which sprout and add to the decorative effect.

Not less remarkable than the bower birds are the butcher birds—a small shrike that is widely distributed in this country. These birds capture small animals of various sorts and deliberately impale them upon thorns, presumably for subsequent use as food. In parts of the west where there are barbed-wire fences they use the wire points instead of thorns for impaling their victims upon. This group shows a pair of butcher birds in a bush, with grasshoppers, mice and a little bird stuck on thorns here and there.

One of the most interesting groups exhibits a pair of woodpeckers of an interesting species. They are engaged in inserting acorns into holes in a tree trunk. In summer, when food is plentiful, these birds devote their time to making a great number of holes in the bark of trees. When the acorns fall in the autumn they gather them and put one into each of the holes they have made. Thus they provide themselves with a supply of provender for the winter. Otherwise, when snow covers the ground, they would be likely to starve.

Other groups show a number of prairie chickens engaged in their love-making dance, flamingoes with their curious nests of mud, a hollow stump with parroquets hanging inside by their bills, which is their manner of roosting, and wild pigeons, which are interesting because they are threatened with extinction.

One group that was prepared for Chicago will not be sent there because it is too horrible. It represents the sheep-eating parrot of New Zealand attacking a sheep. This bird was not originally carniverous, but is supposed to have acquired a taste for mutton during a very cold winter, when, for lack of other food, it assailed the carcasses of killed sheep. Subsequently it took to preying upon the live animals, clinging to their wool and actually eating its way through the flesh to the kidneys, of the fat surrounding which it is especially fond. The poor sheep, unable to defend itself against its winged foe or to escape, eventually succumbs. Fortunately, this parrot has been nearly exterminated in New Zealand by the sheep farmers.—[Washington Star.

Baby Ruth's Silver Spoon.

Mrs. Mary O. Arnold of Norwich, N. Y., received a letter from Grover Cleveland a few days ago, in which he wrote that Ruth was very proud of the silver spoon that Mrs. Arnold has sent her. That spoon has a history. Grover's great-grandfather, the Rev. Aaron Cleveland, dwelt in Norwich Town. His son, Deacon Cleveland, was a silversmith at curious, ancient and tranquil Bean Hill, a mile north of the old town. The square, brown, two-story house in which he lived is still standing under tall elms, whose branches sweep its roofs, at the southern edge of the village. Across the street is a funny-looking little house, with peaked gables. "Adams' Tavern," modeled after an English country alehouse. It was in this demure and snug and tiny building that Deacon Cleveland, in the last century and early part of this had his silversmith shop, and wrought, in silver and gold, trinkets for the people of Bean Hill, Norwich Town and other neighborhoods, and handsome spoons of odd and original designs.

It was in the silversmith's shop that Deacon Cleveland, a hundred years ago, fabricated the solid silver spoon that Mrs. Arnold presented to little Ruth Cleveland. "It belonged to a set of six," said Mrs. Arnold, who is an elderly lady, "that the Deacon had made to order for my mother, Mrs. Mary Jones. These spoons have been in our family ever since, though one after another was lost until now, I think only three are left; two belong to me and the third one to Miss Ruth. I inherited them at the time of my mother's death. It is barely possible that some other member of our family may have one or more spoons of that set."

The spoons are about six inches long, with a shallow, pointed bowl, and on the back of the handle the name "Cleveland" is embossed in bold, handsome letters. Impelled by a sudden caprice, about a week ago, Mrs. Arnold put her present in a box and dispatched it to Ruth with a letter, in which she said: "Please give my love to Baby Ruth."

Southern Forests Disappearing.

Charles Mohn, of the United States Forestry Bureau, writes in the Engineering Magazine: "The facts disclosed by the investigation of our Southern pine forests, and the management of their timber resources, cannot but lead to the conviction that we have already entered upon an era involving their complete extinction. Stupendous as these resources appear, as illustrated by figures quoted in this paper, any doubt about their depletion within a comparatively brief period will be removed if, on the other hand, those figures are considered which relate to the ever-increasing draft on the forests. No one is more aware of the inevitable result of the present treatment of these forests than those actively engaged in reaping the harvest of timber, to mature which nature required centuries of time.

There is no need to dwell here on the calamities which would follow the extinction of the industrial and commercial interests connected with the forests, upon which so many thousands of people are dependent for their existence, or to contemplate the evil consequences of the destruction of the high forest, over large areas, in affecting existing conditions of climate and soil. These themes have become truisms, which in our day can escape no one taking an active interest in affairs affecting our material welfare. Still, with all the light afforded by science and the teachings of national economy, there exists a popular disregard to matters pertaining to forestry, and little headway has been made in the attempt, through state action or otherwise, to secure to posterity some of the advantages of the forest wealth now enjoyed in this country and considered so indespensable to our prosperity."

No More Objections Were Made.

A laughable story is told about town concerning A. H. Hummel, the criminal and theatrical lawyer. Every one knows that Mr. Hummel is not above the average stature of man (physical stature), and every one who has seen him in court knows how quickly and often he can jump up to make objections when he thinks them necessary. It seems that he came in collision a little while ago with ex-Judge Dittenhoefer, who was in an objecting mood, and he was greatly irritated by the latter's deliberate methods. Appealing finally to the court, he said;

"Your honor, it is not the gentleman's objections that I make exception to, but it takes him so long to get up and sit down."

Mr. Dittenhoefer slowly arose and replied as follows:

"Your honor, I possess a good deal of avoirdupois, and it requires some exertion for me to move. I am not like my little friend there (pointing to Hummel), who has only to slide out of his chair to find himself on his feet."

It is said that Mr. Hummel made no more objections.—[New York Tribune.

Signalling Through Water.

The intellectual resources of Wizard Edison show no signs of exhaustion. His latest move is for a new and rather startling system of submarine signalling. He believes that the difficulties in the way of such a system are quite surmountable. The principle on which the proposed invention rests is the fact that water is one of the best media for the transmission of vibrations—that is the conveyance of sound. Vessels are to have a vibratory machine under water, which will at once register the signal sounds from any vessel which may be in the vicinity. The apparatus will be capable of detecting the presence of a ship provided with signals at a distance of from ten to fifteen miles. It is believed that such an invention would reduce the danger of collison at sea to a minimum, and with the removal of this last danger, voyages would be as safe as human ingenuity could make them.—[New York Witness.

AT HOME AND ABROAD.

Important Happenings as Told by Telegraph and Cable.

A Singular Double Tragedy in a New York Gun Shop.

One of the saddest tragedies in the police annals of New York City occurred at 5:25 o'clock, a few afternoons ago, in the big gun store of Hartley & Graham, 313 and 315 Broadway. William W. Reynolds, who for thirty years past had been at the head of the export department of the firm, shot and killed Miles V. Kelly, head bookkeeper of the house, and then turned the pistol against himself, inflicting a fatal wound.

Absolutely no motive can be assigned for the action, and all the persons acquainted with the principals agree that Mr. Reynolds was crazy.

The men had been friends for nearly a quarter of a century, Mr. Kelly having served in Hartley & Graham's establishment for twenty years, and during all that time they never once had a quarrel as far as any one knows.

Not a word preceded the shooting, and that Mr. Kelly was selected as the victim was probably due simply to the fact that he had the misfortune to be the person nearest at hand when the insane impulse to kill seized Mr. Reynolds. For a month or so the latter's friends have noticed certain peculiarities in his actions. He would frequently make mistakes in his correspondence, something formerly unknown, he was absent-minded and hesitating in his speech, and was seized with periods of the most intense despondency. He was fifty years old and married. He had no children, and lived at 155 Hewes street, Brooklyn.

Mrs. Reynolds got to New York City about 8 o'clock. She found her sister-in-law at the hospital where her husband had been taken. They remained with Mr. Reynolds until it was a certainty that he could never recover consciousness, and went away at 10:30 o'clock. He died at fifteen minutes of midnight.

No writing was found which could suggest a motive for either murder or suicide, nor is it supposed that the acts were premeditated by Mr. Reynolds. He never carried a pistol, and the revolver which he used was a new one, taken from one of the showcases.

It still had the tag attached on which was marked its catalogue number, its cost, and selling price. It is believed that it was taken from the case after 5 o'clock, when the clerks had left the store. After it was taken cartridges had to be got from another department before it could be loaded.

The Famous Alice Mitchell Case.

Judge Dubose has been deposed from the bench at Memphis pending the impeachment proceedings in the State Senate of Tennessee, and the members of the bar, as prescribed by law under such conditions, elected Thomas H. Scruggs temporary Judge of the Criminal Court. Judge Scruggs's first official act was in reference to Miss Lillie Johnson of the famous Mitchell-Ward case. Lillie Johnson was out driving with Alice Mitchell on February 25, 1892, when Alice killed Freda Ward. Lillie remained in the buggy at the top of the hill, and said she knew nothing of the crime until after its commission. Nevertheless she was arrested as an accessory and confined in jail until her health gave way. Then she was admitted to $15,000 bail, but Judge Dubose in a brutal manner told her in open court that he believed her guilty.

In August last Alice Mitchell was sent to an insane asylum, where she still is. Although in the Mitchell trial and in the insanity proceedings nothing showed that Lillie Johnson was aware of Alice's intentions, Judge Dubose was so prejudiced that he refused to entertain the motions of Attorney-General Peters to discharge her, and insisted in keeping her under bonds. He said that he intended to try her for murder if ever Alice Mitchell recovered her sanity.

General Peters moved to acquit, and Judge Scruggs promptly acquiesced. Miss Johnson was not present, but was represented by counsel. She has not recovered her health fully since she broke down under the accusations against her.

Stricken While Fighting Fire.

The Misses Swain, three sisters, living at Townsend's Inlet, N. J., were recently made glad by the coming home from Washington, D. C., of their only living brother, Henry Clay Swain, for a short visit.

His sisters had the meadows on their farm burned off next day. The fire was burning well when the wind changed and the flames turned towards the homestead. Mr. Swain joined the workmen who were fighting the advancing fire. The violent exercise brought on an attack of heart trouble, and he fell. Before he was found the smoke and flames had passed over him. He was suffocated and his body was burned in many places. The clothing was almost burned off. He was carried to the mansion and efforts were made to revive him, but he soon died.

Mr. Swain was associated with the firm of Jay Cooke & Co. at the time of their failure. He was well known in Washington society.

Senatorial Confirmations.

The United States Senate has confirmed the following nominations: Mix Judd, of Missouri, to be Consul-General at Vienna; William H. Simms, of Columbus, Miss., to be First Assistant Secretary of the Interior; John S. Seymour, of Norwalk, Conn., to be Commissioner of Patents; Edward A. Bowers, of Washington, D. C., to be Assistant Commissioner of the General Land Office; Henry C. Bell, of Marshall, Ill., to be Second Deputy Commissioner of Pensions; George Pfeiffer, Jr., of New Jersey, to be Marshal of the United States for the District of New Jersey.

Cholera Again Raging.

It is stated in an official report just issued in Russia that an average of 150 new cases of cholera and fifty deaths from the disease are reported every week in the Government of Podolia.

Cholera has appeared at Zuboscz a market town of Galicia. Every attempt has been made by the authorities to check the disease, but despite their efforts it is spreading. Taree deaths from cholera have already occurred, and several new cases were reported.

The Girls Will Attend to the Lamps.

The Young Women's Christian Temperance Union propose some practical temperance work in Evota, Minn. The village recently voted "No license," and the liquor men have said that without license fees there would be no public lighting of the streets. The young women obtained charge of the street lamps, raised money for oil by subscription, and allotted a lamp to each girl, whose pleasure it will be to keep it trimmed and burning.

Tobacco and Cotton Crops.

The acreage in tobacco will be from eighteen to twenty per cent. less than it was last year. Prices have not been good and there is an oversupply.

Notwithstanding that the crop of last year's cotton is nearly 3,000,000 bales short, the price has not gone up. Yet the acreage will be increased from ten to twenty per cent.

Perished in Flames.

The mining town of Kaernten, near Bleiberz, Germany, has been almost destroyed by fire.

When two churches and sixty-five houses had been destroyed the fire was still spreading.

Fifteen persons were known to have perished in the flames, and several others were missing.

A TREMENDOUS blast was fired the other day at Carpenter Brother's quarry, at Fort Lee, N. J., opposite New York City. Competent engineers estimate the quantity displaced at 100,000 tons. Washington's Head, an old landmark between Fort Lee and Coytsville, and 300 feet of Palisades were torn away by the blast.

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND has a wonderful memory.

PRESIDENT NUNEZ, of Colombia, has refused a pension of $30,000 a year.

ISAAC FUSEY GRAY, the new Minister to Mexico, is six feet ten inches tall and weighs 180 pounds.

THE full name of the Brazilian Minister at Washington is General Dionizio Evangelista Castro Cerqueira.

WILFRED YOUNG, a schoolboy, is paid $960 a year for singing in the choir of All Angels' Church, New York City.

MRS. LAMONT, wife of the Secretary of War, will remain in New York until the close of the school year liberates the children.

EX-SECRETARY TRACY says that, in addition to the hard labor and constant anxiety, his cabinet life cost him about $30,000 a year over and above his salary.

GOVERNOR ROSWELL P. FLOWER, of New York, got his first start in life from money earned as a clerk in the Watertown Post-office. He received $7.50 a year.

VERDI received for "Falstaff," his new opera, $32,000 down and will get forty per cent. of the publishing and performing royalty rights. Boito got $2,800 for the libretto.

M. CAVAIGNAC, who is looked on, in the light of recent events, as possibly the coming President of France, is said to be of Irish descent. He is descended from the MacMurrough Kavanaghs, who were kings of Leinster.

PROFESSOR BRIGGS, in addition to his duties as professor of biblical theology in Union Theological Seminary, New York City, has now been assigned to the chair of systematic theology, made vacant by the death of Professor Worcester.

MME. NAVARRO, better known as Mary Anderson, is employing her leisure at Tunbridge Wells, England, in writing her reminiscences. These will, of course, include her recollections of the stage both in America and there. Miss Anderson's favorite relaxation when traveling is chess, and care is always taken that a chess outfit is provided on the train by which she travels.

IN all probability, the greatest monarch, as far as size goes, who rules in the world, is the King of the Gilbert Islands, Teiburmon, who weighs 300 pounds. His son, the Crown Prince, is still heavier. A daughter of His Majesty, only eight years old, weighs 110 pounds. The King has an American cook, and lives in a comfortable fashion, as all his subjects pay a poll tax of $1 each.

GENERAL THOMAS T. ECKERT, the new President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, is one of the oldest telegraph operators in the world. He learned how to handle the key in 1849, and has been actively engaged in the business almost ever since. During the war he was in charge of the military telegraph, and for a short time was Assistant Secretary of War. He has been with the Western Union since 1866.

SUNK BY EARTHQUAKE.

Many Killed by the Falling in of Colombian Mountains.

A tremendous and destructive phenomenon has occurred in the Department of Cauca, in the Republic of Columbia. The volcano of Sotara had been unusually active, and the people in that region were greatly excited by the rumbling of the earth and the extraordinary violence of the volcanic eruption.

Suddenly, while the volcano was belching forth flame and smoke to a great height, the earth began to shake as if a most violent convulsion were in progress, and the mountain ridge called Cruz Loma suddenly sank along its entire extension. The inhabitants in the vicinity who had a chance to escape fled in terror from the scene, and not too soon, as the sunken ridge dammed up three rivers and added devastation to the terrors of earthquake and volcano.

Twelve persons are known to have perished, and many cattle were destroyed, and more destruction is feared, as the rivers, whose usual channels have been obstructed, are rising rapidly.

Great suffering prevails in Cauca, usually the most flourishing department of Colombia, and many people are starving, owing to the failure of the crops, and this new and unexpected calamity has added greatly to the general wretchedness.

The volcano of Sotara is 17,034 feet high, and is but a few miles south of the city of Popayan, the capital of the Department of Cauca, which is the largest of the nine departments into which the United States of Colombia are divided. The city of Popayan has a population of about 21,000. It is situated on an elevated plateau 5,500 feet above the level of the sea.

AGRICULTURAL INQUIRY.

Sub-Committees of the Senate Appointed to Make Investigations.

In April last the United States Senate passed a resolution directing the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry to investigate the condition of the agricultural interests in the United States, and if found depressed to ascertain the cause, and inquire into the proper remedy. Sub-committees made a partial investigation in regard to the cotton industry. The continuance of the investigation was authorized. The committees has appointed a sub-committee consisting of the Chairman, Mr. George, and Senators Bate and Proctor, to inquire into the matter so far as cotton is concerned, and Senators Peffer, Roach and Washburn, to investigate the cultivation of wheat, oats, etc. It is understood that each sub-committee will go to work at an early day, and make the investigation as thorough as practicable.

LIBERTY BELL AT THE FAIR

A Special Guard Over It By Day and Night While at Chicago.

It has been decided by the Councilmanic World's Fair sub-committee, of Philadelphia, Penn., that the Liberty bell shall be taken to Chicago, the date of departure from that city being the 28th of April. The bell will be transported in a special car, and four policemen will go with it as special custodians, and will never lose sight of the charge while it is in Chicago. Several city officials will go to Chicago with the bell. On the way stops will be made in all the large cities so that their citizens may have an opportunity of seeing the famous bell.

LONG-LIVED TRIPLETS.

Three Brothers Celebrate Their Fiftieth Birthday in Kentucky.

The Bonebright brothers, triplets, John, James and Jacob, a few days ago celebrated their fiftieth birthday at the home of James, across the Ohio River from Ripley, Ohio, in Kentucky. John is a business man of Detroit, Mich., while James and Jacob live on adjoining farms in Kentucky. All are large physically, and in robust health. Each is the father of a large family.

TRUST NOT TO "LUCK."

In all vocations, and especially in farming, it will never do for a man to counting on his "luck" helping him through. Luck will not keep the soil rich nor keep down weeds, nor do away with insects and diseases. It requires steady, intelligent, well directed labor and increasing care to wrest any profit from the cultivation of the soil; but when these are given, it is pleasant to note there is about as slight a chance for failures as in any occupation. Never trust luck, but endeavor to compel success by first deserving it, and it is pretty sure to come.

SHOULD BE CONSIDERED.

In selling the farm products the question of how they can be best sold and a part of their value retained on the farm should be considered. If a dollar's worth of grain can be converted into a dollar's worth of pork, or hay and grain into milk and butter of the same value, it is better to sell it in the latter forms, because fat taces away but little from the farm. The value of the manure left behind is considerable, but when hay or is sold manure must be bought or the farm is worth less money by nearly the amount either sells for. It is only selling the farm at retail.

It can hardly be possible that at this juncture a solitary office is out seeking the man. It couldn't go forty rods from the White House in any direction without striking a regiment of men not only willing, but anxious to be found by it or "something equally as good."

All the indications point to an enormously increased tide of immigration this summer. The pent-up stream which encountered the quarantine barrier last year will unite itself with the natural flow of population in this direction. The inspection should be rigid and thorough.

Things are resolutely refusing to come Adlai's way. There isn't even a tie in the Senate, so that he could once in a while. He will drop out of sight as completely as any Vice President, unless he can paint himself green or get stepped on by Grover.

It is said that in future the Governor will require notice to be publicly made of applications of pardon, so that the general public can be apprised of the fact a request for executive clemency is made.

What to do with our ex-Presidents is no longer a problem. In General Harrison's case it is the difficulty of selecting what he will prefer to do. The offers are crowding upon him,

Farming is the best business on earth. The profits are not the largest, but they are the most secure. The industrious, economical and intelligent farmer is bound to succeed.

A STATE FORECAST OFFICIAL.

At the recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Agricultural and Mechanical College and of the Board of Agriculture resolutions were adopted by these bodies requesting the United States Secretary of Agriculture to locate a State official in the meteorological division of the North Carolina Experiment Station organized as the State Weather Service. This official will make forecasts for North Carolina, and being located at Raleigh will be much better situated to study local State weather conditions and can predict the weather with probably greater accuracy than ever before. Many States have already these officials located at the head quarters of the State services, and it is hoped that the Secretary of Agriculture will be able to grant the request.

The very thorough and scientific manner in the "Grand Old Man," Gladstone, is knocking the Tories out every time they come up for punishment is one of the pleasing features of the present session of Parliament. The gentlemen who remarked after the late elections that he had returned to office but not to power were decidedly mistaken.

For many years the United States led the world in the manufacture of agricultural machinery, not only in number and variety, but in quality and efficiency. Foreign made implements, even of American invention and patern, have never compared with our own. In the past few years our progress in this line has been greater than ever before.

Republicans Not all Dead.

Boston Advertiser,

Notwithstanding the heavy electoral vote received by Mr. Cleveland, it is still true that a majority of more than 800,000 of the American people voted for other candidates, and that while in 1888 Mr. Cleveland received 5,538,660 votes and was defeated, he was elected in 1892, although not receiving 20,000 more votes in the entire forty-four States which did not vote in 1888 gave him 55,000 votes in 1892. It seems to be evident that the Democratic party may be numerica ly weaker than it was in 1888.

A Deadly Suggestion.

The Brooklyn Standard Union wants the liquor business taken out of politics. It can't be done, esteemed contemporary, it can't be done! WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, March 31, 1893.

The most significant political event of the week was the "turning down" of ex-Speaker Crisp by Mr. Cleveland. Mr. Crisp backed candidates for each of the several federal offices in Georgia, which were this week filled, but not a single one of his men received an appointment. Whether true or not this failure of Crisp to get his share of patronage in his own State is taken by many politicians to mean that Mr. Cleveland has changed his mind about allowing Crisp to be re-elected Speaker of the House. It is pointed out as proof of this that Mr. Cleveland has announced, notwithstanding the efforts of Crisp and his friends to secure an earlier date, that he would not call the extra session of Congress until September. "This," said a Democratic member of the House, "is to my mind proof positive of Mr. Cleveland's intention to antagonize Crisp. He would, I believe, have called an extra session of Congress this Spring if he had not opposed the election of Crisp. He hopes by September to have a strong organized support for the administration candidate for Speaker, yet to be selected." It has also been noticed that the members of the last House who were conspicuous as anti-Crisp men receive flattering attention when they call at the White House.

There is no occasion, however, for Mr. Crisp to feel at all lonesome because he finds himself "outside the breastworks." He has plenty of companions, one of them being no less a personage than Vice President Stevenson. When he assumed office Mr. Stevenson announced that he had made up his mind not to endorse anybody for office, but he made one exception, and now he wishes he hadn't. His former private secretary, William Duff Haynie, was an applicant for the office of United States Attorney for the district of South Dakota, and through friendship for him Mr. Stevenson not only endorsed his application but made a personal appeal in his behalf to Mr. Cleveland. To say that he was both surpaised and chagrined when he learned that Mr. Ezra W. Miller, a Cleveland "ex," whose strongest endorser was Senator Pettigrew, a Republican, had received the appointment, is putting it mild. He will probably hereafter stick to his original determination to endorse nobody.

There is no longer any doubt about the attitude of the administration towards the New York Senators so far as the distribution of patronage is concerned. Not a single Hill man has yet been appointed to a federal office, and this week Senators Hill and Murphy, who called at the Treasury Department to obtain a small appointment for a New York Democrat, were given the snub direct by Secretary Carlisle. The conversation as reported here was about as follows: Senator Hill—"We want this man appointed; he is a good Democratic worker and deserves recognition." Secretary Carlisle:—'Is that all you have to say in his favor?" Hill:—"Isn't that enough?" Carlisle—"No, it isn't. There are already more applications from New York than it is possible to appoint, I have no room for this man and will not appoint him." Hill, frigidly—'Good day.' Senator Murphy took no part in the conversation, but it is safe to say that he did lots of condensed thinking.

No one regrets more than the Republican Senators the disgraceful episode precipitated by Senator Hoar's resolution directing an investigation by a Senate committee of the charge of criminal embezzlement of the funds of the Washington Bank of which he was cashier, which has been openly made against Senator Roach, and never denied or satisfactorily explained. Patience had simply ceased to be a virture. The Republican Senators had caused Senator Roach to be informed that such a resolution would be offered by one of them if he did not offer it himself or make a pubsic personal explanation of his connection with the charge. At first Roach agreed to make such an explanation, but he afterwards refused to do so, saying that he had been advised by his Democratic colleagues not to do it. Then the resolution was offered. There isn't the slightest taint of partisan politics behind it; it is simply an effort to protect the honor and good name of the United States Senate, both of which have been smirched by the charger against Roach, and hints that other Senators have done things in the past just as bad do not help Roach. In his case they are not hints but a clear and distinct charge. It is doubtful whether the Senate will take any action until the cases of the appointed Senators, now being debated, are disposed of.

The nomination of ex-Congressman Stump, of Maryland, to be Superintendent of Immigration is displeasing to the representatives of the labor organizations who have been endeavoring to secure the place for Herman J. Schultie, of Wisconsin. Mr. Stumpis, however, well qualified for the position, having been chairman of the House committee on Immigration in the last House, and he is also the author of the immigration bill which became a law just before the close of the last session of Congress, and his appointment to administer that law seems to be appropriate.

Why he Wont Appoint Them.

Washington Dispatch.

Congressman John Allen of Mississippi says when he called the other day on President Cleveland, the latter said: "A great many men are applying for office upon the strength of work done for me. They were prominent in the State convention, went to Chicago and labored faithfully there. Of course I am grateful to them, but you will readily see that I cannot appoint them. The very fact that they were zealous in my cause prevents my recognizing their services by giving them office. As the chief servant of the Democratic party I cannot afford to have it said that I have rewarded personal labor performed in my behalf by paying them out of the public treasury."

An Office-Seekers Wail.

National Tribune.

Many of the men who came to Washington when the administration changed on the 4th of March to get an office are getting disgusted at the prospects and are returning to their homes sadder if not wiser men. Said a Georgian who is stopping at one of the larger hotels the other day: "It is a dreadful thing to think how little it takes to dash a fellow's hopes to earth when the fruition of his desire depends upon the temper of one man who holds a position like that which President Cleveland fills so completely. Here I am and I want an office. It is not a big thing, not more than $3,000 a year, yet the comfort of my family and ability to clear myself of debt depends upon my success. It is very important to me. I have spent money to come and spend money to stay here. When ths Executive reaches my papers he may not feel well. There may be a clot of undigested mustard upon his stomach, or he may have a slight cold in the head. Up I go! If I had this thing to undergo again I would rather plow seven days in the week and feed the mules myself."

A SAFE INVESTMENT.
There is no safer or better investment for small or large sums of money than shares of
The Wright Universal Electric Co.
This Company owns one of the most valuable patents ever issued by the United States Government for Electric Heating, Cooking Batteries, Electric Motors, Electric Organists, and many other valuable ELECTRICAL INVENTIONS.
This Company owns the only patent in existence for a practical Electric Gas for Home Use. The Company's Electric Lamps for Family Use
can be carried about the house and used in place as a kerosene lamp. The rays are smokeless, odorless, no danger, and you have a beautiful light instead of the flattering, sickly light of an oil lamp or a gas jet.
The Wright Universal Electric Company has two large factories, both running to their full capacity, and they are unable to fill their orders on time. Hundreds of orders are turned away because the goods cannot be made. The Company must have more factory room, and for that reason it is compelled to sell a limited amount of Treasury Stock. There is nothing which pays such
BIG PROFITS
on the amount invested as first-class Electrical Stocks. If you had purchased a few shares of Bell Telephone Stock, or the Edison Electric, or the Thompson-Houston Electric Stock when those companies were young you would have made investment would have made you rich. The stock of the Wright Universal Electrical Company is just as good an opportunity to MAKE MONEY
as any electric stock which has ever been offered to the public. The Wright Universal Electric Stock will increase in value every day, and when the price will be raised very much it will never again be the given to the public as low as we are now offering it. Do not fail to buy a share which will in a few months pay big profits. Send for our prospectus, which explains fully, with piece of stock, and full particulars of the Company.

The North Carolinian.

Wednesday. April 5, 1893

☞Real Spring at last.

☞Farmers are planting corn.

☞The fruit is still safe; the trees are in full bloom.

☞A supplement appears with this issue of the CAROLINIAN.

☞The motto of a successful farmer is, "Breed up, feed well and weed out."

☞Was anybody "April-fooled" by the types last week saying that Monday was Easter?

☞The wheat is looking well. Unfortunately, there was too little sown in this section.

☞The fishermen are now doing well. The netters are having good catches and the seines are making big hauls

☞Judging by the direction many fat offices are taking, it must be possum instead of pie that Grover has been carving.

☞The attention of our readers is called to the attractive advertisment of S. H. Moore & Co., publishers of 'The Ladies' World.'

☞However extensive your own experience and knowledge may be, do not be afraid to add to your stock by learning all you can from others.

☞Don't waste precious hours during this spring season. It is possible to save time in summer by taking care of time now.

☞As a rule, the man who keeps two dogs, but does not take any newspaper, is not an enterprising citizen.

☞The CAROLINIAN repeats that Elizabeth City needs fewer croakers, better drainage, improved streets and repaired sidewalks.

☞Why so much secrecy about the Elizabeth City bond improvement bill so quietly passed by the late Legislature? Inquiry fails to elicit information as to its scope and requirements.

☞Ex Senator P. H. Morgan, of Shawboro, has been appointed Superintendent of Life-Saving Stations for this District. As a Democrat was entitled to it, the CAROLINIAN is really glad Mr. Morgan "got there."

☞It isn't the Democrat who blows the dust off his label to show the age of his politics that gets nearest to the trough. Political spavins are not accepted at the value set upon them by their owners, and there is where the hard feeling begins.

☞The editor spent Monday at Edenton, and, as usual, had a pleasant time. The Court dockets are light and the attendance was comparatively small—the people are utilizing the fine weather for farm work and fishing. The fisheries are now doing well.

☞How many CAROLINIAN readers have ever thought of it how every thing in nature indulges in amusement? The lightning plays, wind whistles, thunder rolls, snow flies, waves leap and fields smile. Even the buds shoot and the rivers run.

☞For the information of our local business men we state the fact that the circulation of the CAROLINIAN is largely in Elizabeth City, Pasquotank and the adjoining counties—and is continually increasing—making it a valuable medium for advertising.

☞The report from Washington is that Mr. E. F. Lamb has the inside track for Postmaster at Elizabeth City. But whether Grover will ratify or "smash the slate" remains to be found out. It may depend upon what he has for breakfast on the day he acts.

☞The Plymouth "Beacon" has this complimentary notice of Postmaster Dailey at Roper:

The people of Roper seem to regret that their postmaster is on the wrong side; he has given perfect satisfaction, and many of the patrons of that office would be glad for him to remain in office.

☞To the inquiry, "What qualifications are required of a person who desires to become a Railway Mail Agent, and how are such situations obtained?" the CAROLINIAN replies, Applicants must be between the ages of 18 and 35, and competent to pass a civil service examination. For particulars, write to the Civil Service Commission at Washington.

☞At a meeting of the Vestry of Christ's Church, held on Easter Monday, April 3rd, the following were elected as Wardens and Vestry for the ensuing year: J. W. Albertson sr., S. W.; Wm. J. Griffin, J. W.; Frank Vaughan, Sec'y and Treas'r; Frank M. Grice, T. Selby Harney, W. M. Baxter, J. W. Albertson jr., Dr. John B. Griggs and Edw. F. Martin.

☞You are out of debt? Then stay so.

☞Mammon should not make all our laws.

☞See the Sheriff's advertisement of sales of lands for taxes

☞February builds a bridge, March breaks it, and April weeps over it.

☞Brains and kindness are better than whips in managing horses.

—You risk nothing in buying of Robinson & Co. All goods are warranted.

☞The first hoop skirt was worn by a New York lady in 1740. She was arrested by the police.

☞When you see cattle licking each other, don't mistake it for affection. Give them salt.

—A nice assortment of fine black dress goods at reduced prices at Fowler & Co.'s if you can't call and examine send for samples.

☞The finer the soil is made, the more readily it dissolves and becomes available for plant food.

☞The best preventive of gapes in chicks is to frequently scatter lime over the ground occupied by the hens and broods.

☞Some of the office-seekers who have been carrying rabbits' feet for some time, swear they have lost their luck or are hoodoed.

☞The administration pie wagon appears to be acquiring an unenviable reputation for slow delivery. Nor is it sure to stop when comes.

—A lot of boys suits at $1.25 a suit and a few boys overcoats at $1.25 each at Fowler & Co.'s to close, also a lot of broken sizes in men's suits that will be sold a cut price.

☞Good grain and forage costs too much to be wasted on poor animals. Feed good grain and fodder to good stock and it will prove a profitable combination.

☞To be a good entertainer you must be cheerful always. If the blues will come don't take them into the social circle.

—Ladies and Misses Newmarkets, $2.50 each at Fowler & Co.'s. They were carried over from last year and must be sold. Also a lot of children's cloaks, size from from four to six years, from $1.25 up.

☞The smartest man on earth does not say the most, neither does the strongest nor the most talented do the most; 'tis the fellow with the "steady perseverance" bump.

—BEFORE YOU TRAVEL call upon M. B. Culpepper, Ticket Agent, Elizabeth City, N. C., or address Arthur G. Lewis, Passenger and Ticket Agent, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, 76 Main street, Norfolk Va.

☞It is reported from Washington that Postmaster General Bissell has adopted the rule requiring newly appointed Postmasters in the larger offices to devote the whole of their time to the business of the same.

.....Try Robinson & Co.'s French Peas, California Peaches, Cherries, Apricotts and Pears,

☞Boys! don't fret because you are not grown up or rich. In years to come you'll see these things don't bring happiness. The greatest pleasure is derived from grasping good things as they come.

—Our store is all Stove Up; that is to say we've got our stoves up for inspection in such quantity that they fill one side of our store. Robinson & Co.

☞There is a frantic appeal for "harmony" by the leaders of the local and district Democracy. There is only one way to secure it—to give each aspirant the office he wants. And that is impossible as so many are hustling for the same place.

—THE ROYAL BLUE LINE is the finest and fastest Railroad in the world. Address Arthur G. Lewis, Passenger and Ticket Agent, Norfolk, Va., or apply to M. B. Culpepper, Elizabeth City, N. C., for lowest rates to all points.

First-Class Brick: The "Thompson Brick Works" manufacture the best brick for building and all other purposes made in this section. They are well burned and are "all right" in every respect. All orders promptly filled. Address F. G Thompson, manager, Elizabeth City, N.C

☞The Spring term of the United States Court for this District will be held here on Monday, the 17th inst. The following is a list of the jurors drawn:

Currituck: Pierce T. Compton, A. J. Ferebee, M. B. Griggs, Jos. Grandy.

Camden: N. S. Berry, James Sanderlin, Augustus Taylor.

Pasquotank: A. L. Jones, Watson Walker, M. R. Griffin, S. L. Sheep, C. H. Robinson, J. C. Bland, Cha's Meads, Geo. W. Brothers, M. B Culpepper, Frank Pritchard, Wm, A. Price, F. M. Godfrey, Ephraim Overman.

Perquimans: Jesse Armstrong, J. C. Dale, William Nixon, T. C. Nixon, T. C. Jessop, Augustus Reed.

Chowan: Edward Wood, Josiah Warren.

Gates: Thomas Waugh, John Wiggins, Thomas Cross, W. W. Knight, Noah Eure, Geo, R. Eure.

Dare: John Sawyer, G. B. Bliven, T. P. Midgett.

Neuralgic Persons
And those troubled with nervousness resulting from care or overwork will be relieved by taking Brown's Iron Bitters. Genuine has trade mark and crossed red lines on wrapper.

☞Cotton at Norfolk: Good middling 8 11-16; middling, 8 7-8; low middling 7 8-16; good ordinary, 7¼. Corn, 50

☞A copy of Webster's large Unabridged Dictionary, with 3,000 illustrations, can be obtained at this office for $5.

☞Easter was bright, etherial and deliciously balmy, and the fair sisterhood all over the broad land were out, in beautiful array and lovely adornment, enjoying it. Well says a cotemporary, the subtile link that connects the celebration of this most notable day with the donning of a new bonnet is one of those mysterious things that no masculine mind can ever hope to fathom. But, as in regard to other attributes of the fair sex, we may admire even where we fail to comprehend. The Easter bonnet is an institution as intimately associated with the season as is the fire cracker with the Fourth of July, or as is the shamrock with St. Patrick's Day; and we therefore hail it with delight as an artistic treat and respect it as a very appropriate custom.

LOCAL MENTION.

The Mills are all running on full time.—The steamer Tahoma is on Pailin's Ways for repairs.—Many a man who "starts off well" spoils everything by coming back.—It is the expected that fails to happen.—Mr. J. F. Engle, the Photograph man, who has been absent several months, has returned.—Mr. J. E. Fenwick, who left several years ago for Louisiana, is here on a visit to his old home. He gave the CAROLNIAN a call. Ed. has many friends here.—Love may be blind, but it knows when the parlor lamp is too high.—The contest as to who shall succeed Col. Guirkin in handling Uncle Sam's mail bags here is still lively.—The Versifier furnishes the following squib:

He took her to Church on Sunday night.
And they were very late,
Because she went back so many times
To put her hat on straight.

—Mayor W. C. Glover has resigned the Captaincy of the Pasquotonk Rifles. He was a superb officer. The "soldier boys" regret that his private business made this step necessary.—Miss Maggie Mercer, of Currituck, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Mercer on Ehringhause street.—The Listener overheard the following question and reply the other evening: "Did you ever tackle any of those missing word contests," "Yes. The missing word was 'yes' but I could not get her to say it."—Our young townsman Geo. B. Smithson has left to accept a position in Palmer's mill at Jacksonville, Onslow county. Success to him.—Lieut. Gooding and family are now located here. They board at Mrs. Fearing's on Road street.—The hobby rider always wants the road for himself.—A good old poet once wrote:

"Oh, what a tangled web we weave,
When first we practice to deceive."

The Dissembler tries to improve it by adding:

"But what is there to fret about,
So long as you are not found out?"

—The man who is most eager to tell what he is "going to do" usually does the least.—If Andrew don't "watch his corks" they'll euchre him yet in the Postoffice matter, despite his mammoth petition. It is said the names of a number of his endorsers appear on other petitions. Somebody will be "cussing mad" one of these days—Messrs. Blades & Co., are enlarging their already extensive lumber sheds at their mills on North Pennsylvania Avenue.—Our old friend H. W. Styron, esq., of Hatteras, spent a couple of days here last week and gave the CAROLINIAN several calls. There are few better posted men than he is.—The revival meetings at the Methodist Church closed on Wednesday night. Over one hundred professed conversion.—Captain Thomas Spires, Chief of Police, is able to be out on duty again.—The local Spring Poet, having been estopped by the weather during March, now ventures to write:

I love to drink Spring water,
As in my childhood's hour,
Therefore, I am now ready,
To drink an April shower.

—Advice, like some medicine, should be "well shaken before taken."—Suspicion comes quickest to the man who is himself capable of wrongdoing.—The Job Printing done by Mr. Chapman, of the CAROLINIAN office gives universal satisfaction.—The pretty "Easter bonnets" were the observed of all observers at the Churches on Sunday.—The hyacinths and kindred flowers are decorationg the yards now and filling the air with their delightful fragrance.—

Now that the advancing season
Is bringing us blue skies,
The ice man whistles gayly,
And the coal man heaves deep sighs

—The unfortunate lady referred to in last week's CAROLINIAN has so far improved as to be able to leave for her home.—There were several more persons baptised on Sunday night, at the Baptist Church, by the paetr Rev Mr. Blackwell.—Getting warm—The "week of expectation," for which the observers of the Lenten season so anxiously waited for in order to enter the vortex of post-Easter amusements, ushered in on Monday.—Col, G. G. Luke is home from Washington City.—Mr. C. B. Kendall, of Greensboro, spent several days here last week delivering "The Elizabeth City Directory." He made a very favorable impression.—The report from Col. Guirkin is that that the operation performed on his eyes by Dr, Chisholm has been very successful.—Elizabeth City is noticeably becoming a town of artistic homes.—We are sorry to learn that Lieutenant Failing is confined to his room by a severe rheumatic attack.—The price of fish is now down to the poor man's reach.—The corner stone of the "Saint John's" Colored Episcopal Church, on South Martin street, was laid yesterday with appropriate ceremonies, the Colored Masons participating.—There will be a gay time at the Skating Rink, on Water street to-night. Music, dancing, skating, etc.

A Leader.

Since its first introduction, Electric Bitters has gained rapidly in favor, until now it is clearly in the lead among pure medicinal tonics and alteratives—containing nothing which permits its use as a beverage or intoxicant, it is recognized as the best and purest medicine for all ailments of stomach, liver or kidneys. It will cure sick headache, indigestion, constipation and drive malaria from the system. Satisfaction guaranteed with each bottle or the money will be refunded. Price only 50 cents per bottle. Sold by Wadsworth.

GRAND MONEY CROPS.

Highly Improved Field Seed.

To raise pork for 2½ cents per pound you should plant the Improved Jerusalem Artichoke, quite distinct from the common pickling kind; little or no trouble to cultivate; suits any section of the U. S.; yields 400 to 1000 bushels per acre; an acre in them will fatten 30 to 40 head large hogs, Price, 3 lbs., post-paid, 75c; by express or freight as follows: Peck $1; half bushel $1,50, bushel $2,50, barrel of three bushels $6. A barrel is required to plant an acre. Full directions for cultivating, feeding &c. with every order.

We have the "Farmer's Pride" field corn, highly improved by ourselves for 27 years past, acknowledged by leading Agricultural Experiment Stations and thousands of leading farmers to be the best, prettiest and most prolific corn known. Quite early, matures in 100 days; pure white, has large very deep grained ears; grains are very fliaty; weighs 60 pounds to the bushel; often shells over a pound of corn from a single ear; grains are nearly an inch long, very wide and flinty, It has taken over 50 first-class premiums in different corn-growing States in the past seven years. Last, but not least, we guarantee it to make at least a fourth more per acre on same quality of land than if planted in any other crop. Notice this: We will give $100,00 in cash for a sample of better white field corn. Prices: Samples 10c, package of half pound 25c, three pounds $1, post-paid. By freight or express as follows: Half peck $1, peck $1.50, half bushel $2.50, bushel $4. All over this amount at one time $3.50 per bushel.

We have also the wonderful Texas Paper Shell Pecan Trees, perfectly hardy anywhere an oak or hickory grows. Nuts three times the size of the ordinary hard shell. Fine one year trees by express $1 for three, $3 per dozen; 27 enough for an acre; $6 per 100, or more 20c each,

Best Position for Healthy Sleep.

A doctor writing in a medical paper says: "An immense number of people sleep on the left side, and this is the most common cause of the unpleasant taste in the mouth in the morning, which is generally attributed to dyspepsia. If a meal has been taken within two or three hours of going to bed, to sleep on the left side is to give the stomach a task which is difficult in the extreme to perform. The student of anatomy knows that all food enters and leaves the stomach on the right side, and hence sleeping on the left side soon after eating involves a sort of pumping operation which is anything but conducive to sound repose. The action of the heart is also interfered with considerably, and the lungs are unduly compressed. It is probable that lying on the back is the most natural position, but few men can rest easily so, and hence it is best to cultivate the habit of sleeping on the right side."

A Freak in Pigs.

J. T. Arrant, a farmer living in Russell County, Alabama, near Marvyn, has a sow which recently gave birth to a litter of six pigs, and with the exception of one all are deformed. One of the little fellows has but two legs. Both of these are well developed, but there are no signs where the others should be. The pigs are a great curiosity, and Mr. Arrant invites his friends to stop by and see them.—Atlanta Constitution.

Distress in the Stomach CURED by HOOD'S.

Miss Jennie Cunningham
South Newcastle, Me.

"When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I could eat nothing but very light food, without having terrible distress in my stomach. I had tried other medicines, which did me no good. Before I had taken 1 bottle of Hood's I saw that it was doing me good. I continued to grow better while taking 5 bottles, and now I

BAYARD FOR ENGLAND.

President Cleveland Sends in a Number of Nominations.

Short Biographies of the More Important Appointees.

President Cleveland sent the following nominations to the United States Senate: Thomas F. Bayard, of Delaware, to be Ambassador Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Great Britain; to be Envoys Extraordinary and Ministers Plenipotentiary of the United States: James D. Porter, of Tennessee, to Chile; James A. McKenzie, of Kentucky, to Peru; Lewis Baker, of Minnesota, to Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Salvador; Pierce H. B. Young, of Georgia, to Guatemala and Honduras; Edwin Dun, of Ohio (now Secretary of Legation at Japan), to Japan. To be Consuls of the United States: L. M. Shaffer, of West Virginia, to Stratford, Ontario; Harrison R. Williams, of Missouri, to Vera Cruz; M. P. Pendleton, of Maine, to Pitou; Theodore M. Stephan, of Illinois, to Annaberg; William T. Townes, of Virginia, to Rio de Janeiro; Claude Meeker, of Ohio, to Bradford; Newton B. Eustis, of Louisiana, to be Second Secretary of the Legation of the United States at Paris; John M. Reynolds, of Pennsylvania, to be Assistant Secretary of the Interior, vice Cyrus Bussey, resigned; Henry J. Hathaway, of Maine, Collector of Customs for the district of Aroostock, Maine; Walter Goddard, of Connecticut, Collector of Customs for the district of Fairfield, Conn.; Lawrence Maxwell, Jr., of Ohio, to be Solicitor General, vice Charles H. Aldrich, resigned; John I. Hall, of Georgia, to be Assistant Attorney General, vice George H. Shields, resigned.

Ex-Secretary of State Thomas F. Bayard, nominated as the first American Ambassador to the Court of St. James, was born in Wilmington, Del., sixty-three years ago. He was trained for a commercial life, but after a short experience in business in New York he returned to his birthplace and studied law with his father, James A. Bayard, also a United States Senator from Delaware. Mr. Bayard was admitted to the Bar in 1851, and two years later became United States District Attorney for Delaware. He has served three terms in the United States Senate, his father being re-elected a Senator at the time of his son's first election. His grandfather, James Ashton Bayard, was also a Senator from Delaware. In 1885 he resigned his seat in the Senate to become Secretary of State in President Cleveland's Cabinet. Since his retirement from the Cabinet Mr. Bayard has engaged in the practice of the law at Wilmington.

Ex-Governor James D. Porter, Minister to Chile, to succeed Patrick Egan, is a resident of Paris, Tenn., where he is engaged in the practice of law. He has served with distinction on the bench, and has the reputation of being one of the ablest lawers in his State. He was born in 1824. Mr. Porter was Assistant Secretary of State under Mr. Bayard.

James A. McKenzie, who goes as Minister to Peru, was a representative from Kentucky in the Forty-seventh Congress. He is fifty-three years of age, and, while he was educated as a lawyer, has followed the occupation of a farmer. He was a delegate to the last two National Democratic Conventions. He is an ex-Congressman, one of the National World's Fair Commissioners and has a high reputation as an orator. At home he is familiarly known as "Quinine Jim," because he put through Congress a bill placing quinine on the free list.

Lewis Baker, of St. Paul, who will go as Minister to Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Salvador, is proprietor of the St. Paul (Minn.) Globe. He was born in Belmont County, Ohio, November 7, 1832. He was a Delegate at Large from West Virginia in the Democratic National Convention, and was a strong advocate of Cleveland's nomination in 1884. His only previous political office was presiding officer of the West Virginia Senate in 1870, which was at that time Republican.

Pierce M. B. Young, of Georgia, nominated to be Minister to Guatemala, was a Major-General of cavalry in the Confederate Army. He has served several times in Congress and is well-known in Washington. He was educated at West Point, and is a large plantation owner. Under Mr. Cleveland's former administration he was Consul-General at St. Petersburg.

Edwin Dun, nominated to be Minister to Japan, is a citizen of London, Ohio. His nomination is in the nature of a promotion, for he is a holdover from the previous Democratic administration. Mr. Cleveland when President before made Mr. Dun Secretary of the Legation at Japan, and on account of his services and ability he was retained by Mr. Harrison.

Mr. Newton B. Eustis, of Louisiana, to be Second Secretary of Legation at Paris, is the son of Minister Eustis.

John M. Reynolds, of Pennsylvania, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, is a lawyer of excellent reputation, and lives in Bradford.

Lawrence Maxwell, Jr., who is appointed to the Solicitor-Generalship, is a native of Cincinnati, and a graduate of the University of Michigan, and has been a Judge of the Common Pleas in Cincinnati. He is a lawyer of repute, and has been for some years a leader in musical affairs in Cincinnati.

John I. Hall, nominated to be Assistant Attorney-General, is a member of the law firm of Hall & Hammond, with offices in Atlanta and Griffin, Ga., the latter place being his home.

The Senate immediately confirmed the nomination of Mr. Bayard.

HORRORS OF SIBERIA.

Brutal Scenes Witnessed by Captured Sailors.

Louis A. Paradyce, a sailor, who arrived at San Francisco, Cal., from China on the Gaelic, tells a story of horrible treatment in Siberian prisons. He was on the sealing schooner Mary H. Thomas, and with another sailor named Wilson went ashore on the coast of Kamschatka to fill water casks. A hurricane drove the schooner off, and they were left ashore. They had no provisions and traveled inland to a camp of Russian soldiers, where they were seized and accused of being spies, and sent to Carazzck, a convict station. Although Wilson and himself were roughly treated, they were not flogged as other prisoners were.

There were about 6300 convicts at the station, and every Wednesday those who had disobeyed rules during the week were given fifty lashes with the knout. A woman was knouted, and three hours later gave birth to a dead child. Of 6000 convicts in camp 1800 wore a ball and chain. Many men were too feeble to walk, and were dragged along by their companions, while soldiers would prod them with bayonets to make them move more quickly. The convicts were fed with black bread and raw meat.

Finally Paradyce and Wilson were taken to Vladivostock, and from there were sent to the Kara gold fields, a fifteen days' journey. They suffered frightfully from hunger and fatigue. Wilson gave out and had to be carried in a wagon. The United States ship Marion arrived at Vladivostock and the officers were informed by a merchant named Smith of Paradyce and Wilson's fate. The commander of the Marion demanded that the prisoners be given up, and after considerable delay this was done. They were taken to Shanghai on the Marion and placed in a hospital. As soon as Paradyce was able to travel he was sent to Hong Kong on the Gaelic and thence came here.

BURGLARS ROB A BANK.

They Get $10,000 at Pawling, N. Y., and Escape on a Hand Car.

A daring robbery occurred a few mornings ago in Pawling, N. Y. The robbers entered the savings bank in the Dutcher House and secured $10,000. Twenty-five guests were in the house, but none of them were awakened. The safe was forced open and everything in it extracted without noise. After cracking the safe the robbers made their way to the railroad station, where they stole a hand-car belonging to the Grand Central Railroad and rode to Brewsters. There they ditched the car and walked to Carmel station to wait for a train.

At that point they found the station locked, but they broke in the door and rested until the 7 o'clock express arrived. This they boarded without exciting suspicion. They had their booty in a large valise. Soon after the train left the station a deputy sheriff rode into Brewsters, bringing news of the robbery. There it was learned that the burglars had taken a train at Carmel, and although it was a fast express it was decided to stop it at an intermediate station. This was done and the burglars captured. They gave their names as John Walters and Henry Cary. The stolen goods were recovered and the robbers given into the hands of the New York officials.

THE NEWS EPITOMIZED.

Eastern and Middle States.

Two men were killed and four badly, if not fatally injured by an explosion of gas at Oak Hill Colliery, near Minersville, Penn.

COLONEL ELLIOTT F. SHEPARD, one of the sons-in-law of W. H. Vanderbilt, and editor and proprietor of the Mail and Express, died suddenly in New York City from the effects of ether during a medical operation.

THE Census Bureau issued a bulletin on mortgage indebtedness in the State of Connecticut. It appears from the bulletin that the real estate mortgage debt existing January 1, 1890, is $74,921,071. Connecticut has a per capita mortgage indebtedness of $107.

AN Irish mass meeting was held in New York City to rejoice over Gladstone's Home Rule measure; speeches were made by W. Bourke Cockran, Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, Doctor Wallace, Doctor Brown and others. A large sum of money was subscribed to aid the cause.

THE great strike of the Monongahela Valley of Pennsylvania coal miners has virtually ended in a victory for the mine owners.

ALBERT G. REED, a faithful old messenger in the employ of the Pacific Bank, New York City, blew out his brains in the bank because he felt, apparently, that his days of usefulness were over. He was getting too weak to work. Reed was sixty-eight years of age.

PERCY GRASE and Lewis Dewolf, aged seven and nine years, of Corning, N. Y., wandered into the country and were found dead, it is supposed from eating poisonous berries.

South and West.

THE vault in the Register of Deeds' office at Newton, Kan., was broken open and the county's records destroyed. A hole was made through a two foot brick wall into the vault with a pick. The records were piled on the floor, saturated with kerosene and set on fire. There is no clue to the perpetrators. The loss cannot be made good for less than $100,000.

IN Pauhuska, Osage Nation, Indian Territory, fire swept away a large portion of the town, destroyed the Indian council house, several large stores and many smaller buildings. Five lives were lost.

ANN O'DELIA DIS DEBAR, the "spook priestess," was convicted of larceny in Illinois and sentenced to the Joliet Penitentiary for two years.

THE barge Equator, from Norfolk for Philadelphia, in tow of the tug Ivanhoe, went to pieces fifteen miles east of Fenwick's Islands, Md., during a gale, and the crew were lost.

THE Commercial National Bank of Nashville, Tenn., has suspended. The cause was the failure, a few days before, of Dobbins & Dazey. The capital of the bank was $1,000,000.

THREE young men were drowned at the dam at the head of Marietta Island, Ohio. They were attempting to shoot across the swift water, when the boat capsized. They were George Dow, Harry Dow and Frank Ackerson.

ACY HARLOW and wife and Peter Wolfrey and wife were murdered in their homes in Cooper County, Missouri. The murderers are unknown.

A BAND of heavily armed Apaches was reported as wandering off their reservation near Phœnix, Arizona, and it excited much apprehension among settlers.

DICK CROWDER shot and killed James Meuler and John Harp near Ironville, Ky. The men were interested in an illicit still, which was conducted near Big Gulch. Crowder sold a half barrel of the whisky and refused to divide the money with his partners. Crowder escaped.

R. IRVING LATIMER, who was serving a life sentence in the Michigan Penitentiary at Jackson for the murder of his mother, poisoned one of the guards, secured two rifles and escaped.

GENERAL E. KIRBY SMITH died at his home at Sewanee, Tenn., a few nights ago. He was the last of the full Confederate generals. He was one of the most prominent figures of the war on the Confederate side, occupying as he did the position of Provisional Secretary of War while stationed in charge of the entire Trans-Mississippi department. He was born in St. Augustine, Fla., on May 16, 1824.

F. H. FREEREUS, the proprietor of the Vonderbanks Hotel in New Orleans, La., has suddenly disappeared, leaving $45,000 debts.

Washington.

THE State Department has received official information that Queen Victoria has raised the rank of Sir Julian Pauncefote, her representative in Washington, from that of Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to that of Ambassador.

SECRETARY HOKE SMITH has given a decision against the Southern Pacific Railway which will open many thousands of acres of land to settlement.

HEREAFTER on Tuesdays and Fridays members of the Cabinet will not receive callers in the departments in Washington. The President issued an order to that effect.

THREE BANKS FAIL.

A Panic in Nashville (Tenn.) Commercial Circles.

Three banks in Nashville, Tenn., which had been regarded as substantial failed to open their doors on the morning after the failure of Dobbins & Dazey, the big cotton brokers. In consequence there was a panic in commercial circles and confidence in the stability of other institutions was shaken.

The first announcement was that the Commercial National Bank had failed. This was soon followed by the reports that the Mechanics' Savings Bank and Trust Company and the Bank of Commerce were in difficulties. A run on all the banks was feared, and to avoid this the banks made assignments, thus protecting equally the interests of all the creditors.

The Commercial National Bank had enjoyed the utmost confidence of the people of Nashville. The suspension is the direct result of the failure of Dobbins & Dazey, cotton brokers. The amount stated as the indebtedness of that firm to the Commercial was $30,000. It has since been learned that the bank's total loss on Dobbins & Dazey's paper, their foreign exchange and overdraft amounted to $263,000.

The Bank of Commerce made assignment naming John T. Lellyett as assignee. This action was precipitated by the general apprehension of a run on the bank, which the officers believed would be made. The deposits were not large, aggregating only about $50,000.

The Mechanics' Bank suspended withdrawals by depositors for sixty days.

The three failures will break about thirty small banks in the country towns and the losses in all will reach one million and a half dollars. Two small State banks failed that day. The failure will stagnate business and the loss from that source will be equally as great.

QUEEN OF THE SEA.

Cruiser New York Proves Herself the Fastest Warship Afloat.

The United States cruiser New York returned to Cramp's shipyard at Philadelphia, Penn., after a private trial trip for the sole observation of her contractors, which indicates that she will not only beat the required speed of twenty knots for a continuous run of four hours, but will be the fastest armored cruiser afloat. On a ten-mile course in Delaware Bay she developed 19.95 knots, going once each way over the course, so that the tide might not enter into the calculations. Out in deep water, where there is no "drag," she developed an estimated speed of 20.38 knots per hour, and at one time reached the figure 20.57.

This is more than a knot higher than the Blake, the crack English cruiser soon to participate in the naval parade, but is behind the forced draught speed, which had to be abandoned on account of leaking boilers, of the Blenheim, the sister of the Blake. The Blenheim, under natural draught, made 20.4 knots, which is a greater record than that shown by the New York on this trip. The Blake and Blenheim, however, are set down by the English Admiralty as unarmored cruisers. The New York is an armored cruiser of nearly 1000 tons less weight than the two English vessels.

TREMENDOUS FIGHTING.

The Progress of the Civil War in Honduras.

Tremendous fighting marks the progress of the war in Honduras. News has just been received of a battle near Tatumbla which resulted in the defeat of the Government troops with a loss of more than one hundred men killed on the field. Nearly fifty of the revolutionary soldiers were slaughtered, and after the battle the bodies of all the dead men found on the field were collected in a heap and burned.

A SHORT HONEYMOON.

An Indian Who Had Married a White Girl Murdered.

News has been received at Dennison, Texas, that Willis Jordan, of Jackson County, Choctaw Nation, was called to his door the other night and riddled with bullets. Jordan, who is a full blood Indian, was married several months ago to a white girl against the wishes of his brother, who swore that the honeymoon would be short.

OUTLAWS ROB A BANK.

Two Half-Breed Indians Invade a Kansas Town.

In the Presence of Ten Men They Secure $2500.

Three officials of the Caney Valley (Kan.) Bank were suddenly confronted by two unmasked robbers, covered with revolvers and after a show at resistance the bank was coolly robbed of $2500 in cash a few afternoons ago. The robbers were the notorious desperado Henry Starr and a half-breed Indian, also an outlaw, whose name is Newcomb.

In the bank at the time were Cashier Perry Hollingsworth, Assistant Cashier H. A. Schurr and Judge McEnery, Vice-President of the First National Bank of Coffeyville, where the Daltons met their fate.

As the robbers reached the bank counter each man pulled revolvers. Assistant Cashier Schurr jumped backward into the vault and closed the door after him. The other two men were at the mercy of the robbers, who vaulted the counter. Starr ordered Hollingsworth to open the door of the vault, saying that he would kill him if he refused. At this Schurr opened the door from the inside, fearing the threat would be carried into effect, but was coolly told to wait a minute.

Starr covered the two bankers with his pistols and had Newcomb reach under the cashier's counter and secure the two Winchesters and a revolver lying there.

Then Schurr was ordered to open the vault door, and, at the point of a Winchester, was made to place all the money in the vault, $2000, in a wheat sack, and from the money drawer $500 was added. All this was done very quickly.

Starr jumped over the counter just as a business man came in to make a deposit. Starr ordered the man to throw up his hands, and was obeyed. Starr backed to one side of the entrance just as another customer entered with bank book in hand.

It was nearly the closing hour, and in five minutes, perhaps, the robber had seven citizens in line, each with his hands up.

"The Daltons are not all dead," said Starr to the terrified bank officials and citizens. "I guess we'll pay the bank across the street a visit," he laughed.

It was 3 o'clock, and Starr calmly closed the bank doors, but without turning his back to the prisoners. Then the robbers marched the ten men back through the bank into a yard surrounded by a high board fence, locked the door, walked hurriedly out at the front, mounted their horses and rode rapidly southward. It was ten minutes before the alarm was given.

When the alarm was finally given the news of the daring robbery spread rapidly, and a posse of citizens was quickly organized and started in pursuit. Before the start could be made, however, the robbers had secured an advantage of fully thirty minutes.

The bank was soon surrounded and the still frightened bank officials were too overcome to accurately state their loss further than that everything in sight in the money line had been secured by their visitors.

Henry Starr is one of the notorious Dalton gang, and only recently escaped from jail.

IN A FLOATING BARN.

Remarkable Escape of Farmer Price's Pigs and Chickens.

During the recent big freshet in the Susquehanna River the barn of William Price, who lives near Wilkesbarre, Penn., was carried away when the ice gorge broke. In the barn were ten pigs and seven chickens.

Price gave up all hope of ever seeing his stock again, expecting that the barn would break up and the pigs and chickens drown, but the animals and birds were born under a lucky star.

The barn held together and floated down upon the big cakes of ice until the flood subsided and left it stranded on a small island near Selins Grove, Penn., eighty-five miles down the river.

There was a barrel of corn in the barn, and this had been upset by the pigs and furnished good living during their trip. The animals and chickens were found by a party of men and were in good condition. The men found something in the barn with Price's name on it, and wrote to him. Price went to Selins Grove, and shipped his live stock home.

Cut the Pennies in Two.

How many collectors of coins know anything about the curious half-pence issued centuries ago by English authorities, half-pence in the truest sense of the words, since they were nothing more than minted pennies cut directly in half? Specimens of these coins have been discovered frequently among the buried treasures which from time to time have been unearthed in Great Britain. In Lancashire in 1840 were found a rare lot of coins, among which were several pennies of the time of Alfred and Edward divided in this way.

Similarly divided pence of the time of Edward the Confessor have been found, and in speaking of the discovery in 1833 of a number of these curious half-pence of the time of William the Conqueror, an unquestioned authority states that they were probably issued from the mints in that form, since the whole collection had evidently been in circulation.

In the British Museum in London are specimens of these divided coins issued under various monarchs from Alfred to Henry III., with the latter of whom the custom ceased. An eminent archæologist accounts for the divided coins by saying that this doubtless arose from the scarcity of small change, which was in part remedied under the reign of Edward I. by the coinage of half-pence and farthings.—Chicago Tribune.

Quail Easily Tamed.

Peter Landin has been in the habit of throwing out feed near his house for a flock of quail during the winter. When the late storm commenced he put the feed under a box up against the house. The quail took shelter under the box, when Mr. Landin took them into his house, where they enjoyed the warmth to the full. One remained in the house for several days, refusing to go out and join the others until the storm was over. These quail are special pets of Mr. Landin, and woe be unto the person that molests them. He pets them so they will clean the thistles from his farm.—Port Stanley (Wash.) Graphic.
